SURE, WE'LL LISTEN

Perhaps I have not been reading the papers closely enough, or it escaped my attention, but I notice in a batch of bills received from the legislature through the courtesy of assemblyman T. H. Delap that nine members of the lower house have introduced a concurrent resolution inviting Huey Long to saunter out this way at his leisure and make plain the machinery of his plan "to share the wealth."

Whether it was the intention of the sponsors of the resolution to stick a pin in the governor and make him uncomfortable, is not apparent but from the language used and the direct reference to the Townsend old age pension program which seemed to be dragged in gratuitously, it would have that appearance. Read the resolution and draw your own conclusions.

THE INVITATION

"WHEREAS, It is desirable that the California Legislature be informed on the various steps being proposed in the United States to solve the complex social and economic problems confronting the American people; and

"WHEREAS, The Assembly and Senate of the California Legislature have memorialized the Congress of the United States to adopt the Townsend old age pension plan one of several proposals now before the American people to bring about recovery; and

"WHEREAS, The Honorable Huey P. Long, member of the United States Senate from the State of Louisiana, has drafted a plan of National action known as the "share-the-wealth" program which has had considerable publicity and is receiving the favorable attention of the people in certain States; and

"WHEREAS, If the "share-the-wealth" program of Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana is practicable.

Blessed Event? Bab Hutton Says Answer Is "No"

RENO, Nev., April 3.—UP—Life was a round of rumors and denials for Barbara Hutton and her attorney, George Thatcher today. First came whispered reports that Princess Barbara was expecting a blessed event—hence her seven-day rush trip from London to Reno and an obvious desire to get her divorce from Prince Alexis Mdivani over and done with.

The report also was credited as explaining the heiress' seclusion in Thatcher's home since her arrival here Saturday.

"It's a lie!" roared Thatcher when asked concerning the rumormongers.

Members of the princess' household declined to comment on the reports, other than to add general and equally emphatic denials.

James Blakely, 25, socially prominent New York youth, now engaged in motion picture work in Hollywood, paid a flying visit to Princess Barbara.

"An emphatic no to all rumors of any marriage between us," Blakely said after arriving in Reno by plane. He insisted that he had flown to Reno merely to pay the Princess a one-day visit, and to "see how she was getting along."

Blakely planned to return to Hollywood late today.

BATTLE PLAN DISCUSSED BY STRIKERS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—UP—The Council of Marine Crafts met in "war conference" here today to make battle plans if negotiations in the Pacific Coast tanker strike before a Federal Mediation Board appointed by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins fail.

A majority of tanker operator representatives were in Los Angeles today for conferences both on the tanker strike and a gasoline price war impending in the south.

NEW MEETINGS

They are to return tomorrow for another meeting which observers feel will be the "crucial" one of the series.

Albert Rosenzweig, chairman of the Perkins committee, declared he believed the meeting would produce results, while others said that if it does not apparently "the lid will be off."

BITTER OBJECTION

Although there was no official announcement as to what the marine crafts talked about, it was learned bitter objections were voiced against the tanker owners for manning ships with strikebreakers while the strikers had been content to await action of the Perkins board.

"They are unwilling to cooperate and are seeking a battle," some of the delegates maintained. Immediate and aggressive steps (Continued on page 5)

Britain Astounded By Revelation Of German Air Strength

She Lost

LONDON, April 3.—UP—Sir John Simon caused a sensation in the House of Commons today when he confirmed reports that Germany had reached air parity with Great Britain.

HITLER MAKES ADMISSIONS
The Foreign Secretary, in response to questions on the British peace mission's conversation in Berlin last week, asserted that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler had admitted the Reich's secret rearmament program had made Germany a world aviation power.

Sir John said Hitler "declared in general terms that Germany had reached air parity with Britain."

The report had been current for days, but this open revelation shocked most quarters. The nation had clung to the illusion that the Royal Air Force was 40 to 50 percent superior to that of Germany.

HOW NATIONS RATE

The announcements followed advice from Paris recently that European military experts estimated Germany shortly would be third in air power, with a potential air fleet of 2,000 war planes. The charts of martial strength showed the following war plane lineup:

Russia, 2,500.
France, 2,167.
Germany (potential), 2,000.
Italy, 1,507.
Britain, 848.

EYES ARE OPENED

This listing of Great Britain as fifth in air strength aroused further concern, particularly in view of frequent statements by such conservative leaders as Stanley Baldwin and Winston Churchill that the British first line of defense now lies on the Rhine—and that her supremacy on the seas no longer is sufficient to insure her from attack.

RUSH DEFENSE PLANS

Hence, the British policy has shifted to construction of an air force second to none, and the government, along with France and Italy, is rushing plans for defense in the air against possible air raids over the channel in "the next war."

SO MANY were ill during a turbulent Atlantic crossing that Binnie Barnes, red-headed English actress above had practically no one to help celebrate her 28th birthday, so she got into a dice game aboard and lost $50 and then had to borrow $50. This is how Miss Barnes looked as she arrived in New York enroute to Hollywood.

Dead Dog Is Revived But Dies Again

BERKELEY, April 3.—UP—Phoenix, mongrel dog killed and resuscitated yesterday by Dr. Robert E. Cornish, died a second time today.

After eight hours' "life after death" in which he never regained full consciousness, Phoenix's heart suddenly gave up its labored effort. Barbitol, a drug administered the dog to slow the heart action and to permit it to rest, brought only temporary aid.

Phoenix was killed first with ether. Four minutes after his death Dr. Cornish succeeded in reviving the dog with an injection of a "life fluid" he has used successfully on several other dogs, two of which still are living, months after being resuscitated.

Dr. Cornish, youthful chemist, had hoped the fluid used on Phoenix would restore the dog to normal activity, free of the brain and nerve impairment sustained by ether or dogs he has revived after death.

New tests to determine the qualities lacking in the fluid will be conducted, Dr. Cornish indicated.

BATTERY IS STOLEN

M. R. Johnston of 1925 McGee street, Berkeley, reported to police yesterday that someone stole a battery from his car while it was parked near the Ford plant yesterday. The battery is valued at $7.

LAMSON AIDED BY NURSEMAID

SAN JOSE, April 3.—UP—Pretti Delores Roberts Sorensen, former nursemaid to the infant daughter of David Lamson and Aileen Thorpe Lamson, stoutly defended Lamson today in his retrial on charges of killing his wife.

Defense Attorney Edwin V. McKenzie, in a long explanation of her testimony after sharp prosecution objections, said she had been called to "end forever" malicious whisperings connecting her name with that of her employer.

Her testimony gave strong support to defense claims that Lamson and his wife, contrary to State contentions, were on the best of terms and mutually in love with each other.

Lamson, she said, always treated his wife considerably and with the greatest affection. When differences arose, she said, the Lamsons would sit down and calmly discuss the issues involved.

CONFERENCE PLANNED

The well baby conference will be held at Lincoln school this morning at 10 o'clock. All preschool age children from Peres and Nystrom schools are eligible for examination.

OFFICE PLAN URGED FOR SUPERVISORS

MARTINEZ, April 3.—The Contra Costa county grand jury tonight refused to indict Philip H. White, of Oakland, on a charge of the death of Edward Harbo, former Richmond man who was killed in an automobile accident on San Pablo avenue several weeks ago.

After hearing the evidence presented by Deputy District Attorney Homer Patterson and numerous witnesses, the jury refused to return a true bill.

RESCUES ACTION

Two other important decisions were reached by the grand jury during its lengthy session. The group rescinded a former resolution recommending that deputy district attorneys be prohibited from private law practice.

At the same time, the jury recommended that supervisors establish business offices. Under this plan, each supervisor would have a centrally located office where he would transact business matters affecting his district and would not be molested at his home.

WITNESSES HEARD

In the Winter case, the jury heard the defendant, who is charged by El Cerrito police with driving while drunk, tell his story (Continued on page 8)

Seaman Jailed After Attack

Lloyd A. Kates, said to be a striking seaman picket, was lodged in city jail last night on charges of battery as the result of an alleged attack on Frank Blowers of 824 Nevin avenue.

Blowers declared that Kates and another man accosted him on Standard avenue and followed him home. On the back porch of the Blowers' home the two men leaped on Blowers and beat him, he reported to police. He recognized Kates and had a warrant sworn to for his arrest.

Kates is being held in the Richmond city jail in lieu of $500 cash or $1,000 bond bail.

Horner Named As Lodge Delegate

Attorney Clare D. Horner was named as a delegate to the grand chapter meeting in Pasadena by the Royal Arch Masons at a meeting in Masonic hall last night.

E. O. Nicholson presided over the business meeting, which was attended by many visitors.

Alameda chapter was present during the evening and conferred a decree on a candidate from that chapter.

Refreshments were served at conclusion of the meeting.

Blum Is To Sell His Delicatessen

MARTINEZ, April 3.—M. Blum of 448 Thirty-first street, Richmond, today filed a notice of intention to sell a delicatessen business in Richmond to A. J. Hendricks of 1629 Truxum street, Bakersfield. The business is at Twenty-third street and Macdonald.

TAX WARNING
MARTINEZ, April 3.—Tax Collector M. W. Joost today called attention of taxpayers to the delinquency of second installment of county taxes on April 20. The collector declared a large sum remains to be paid on county taxes.

49 Camp Celebration Investigation Asked By El Cerrito Judge

A bombshell was exploded in the El Cerrito police court last night when Judge A. G. Thompson demanded a grand jury investigation of alleged gambling in connection with the last week 49 celebration in that city. Nothing as sensational has occurred in El Cerrito for many years and the news of the charges spread like wildfire and was the subject of excited comment everywhere.

Not only did the municipal judge openly charge violation of the gaming laws but announced his intention of making known to the State Board of Equalization the alleged operation of a bar dispensing all kinds of liquors without a restaurant adjunct, as the law provides and demand that that body conduct a probe.

THE OPENING GUN

The first startling announcement came in connection with the case of E. Pickles appearing before him, charged with the offense of drunkenness.

Commenting on the arrest and issuing orders for the dismissal of Pickles, Judge Thompson declared that he understood that several persons had been arrested at the headquarters of the celebration (the Hollywood Inn) for violation of the city ordinance curbing drunkenness. The jurist stated that "apparently these men were suffering from the effects of too free indulgence in what was being sold too freely at the headquarters."

CHARGE IS DISMISSED

Continuing, Judge Thompson declared that he understood that many others had flagrantly violated the intoxication laws (Continued on page 5)

JAP SAILOR IS KNIFED IN ROW

A knife fight on board the oil tanker Oleum purchased by the Japanese government for junk, and now docked at Oleum, resulted in the serious injury of one Japanese and the jailing of a second.

The injured man is H. Anodo, 35, who is at the Richmond Cottage hospital suffering from three knife wounds—one below the left ear, one on the left side of the neck and a serious wound between the temple and ear on the left side of the face. Hospital attaches said last night that Anodo may die from his injuries.

R. Sai is charged with the stabbing affray. Authorities reported that the two became embroiled in an argument on board the ship and the knife ensued.

The tanker was purchased by the Japanese from the Union Oil Company for the scrap iron it contains and is scheduled to sail for Japan on Friday.

Labor Opposes Highways Plan

As a result of a request, the Contra Costa Central Trades and Labor Council last night went on record as opposing the proposed inclusion of all highways into a state-owned system. A copy of the resolution adopted by the Council will be sent to the legislature.

Optimistic reports were heard on union labor conditions in the country. Locals are reporting gains in membership and increasing employment for the various workers.

The council, by a vote, placed the Standard Oil Company on its "unfair" list, along with the Wilshire Oil company. This action was taken on the request of the state labor federation.

E. L. Orr presided over the meeting.

ARE PARENTS OF SON

Mr. and Mrs. C. Wilson Locke, of San Pablo, are the proud parents of an 8½ pound baby boy born last evening to Mrs. Locke at the Humboldt hospital. Both mother and son are reported doing nicely.

Charles Gordon Taken By Death

Charles Gordon, 4405 W. 24th avenue, Richmond, died early yesterday evening, following a short illness. Deceased was 57 years of age and was a native of San Francisco. He had lived here for the last eight years.

Gordon was a retired sheet metal worker, a trade he had followed for the past 30 years.

He leaves his widow, Agnes, a daughter and the following stepsons: Edgar Anderson of Sacramento; W. R. Anderson of Richmond; Leonard Anderson of El Cerrito and Stanley Anderson of Richmond.

The body is at the Wilson and Kratzer chapel where services are pending.

W. A. Lee Dies At Oleum Home

William Arthur Lee, 66, died yesterday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. L. J. Donnelly of Oleum following a long illness. Deceased was a resident of Alta, California and was a retired farmer. He was a member of the Masons and the Eastern Star.

He is survived by his widow, Jessie W. Lee of Alta; five daughters, Mrs. E. S. Leonard, Jr., of Missouri; Mrs. E. C. Brehm of Illinois; Mrs. L. J. Donnelly of Oleum and Misses Velda and Madelyn Lee of Oakland; two sons, Gerald P. Lee of Roseville and Donald A. of Oakland and eight grandchildren. His sister, Mrs. Mattie Lenn of Sacramento, also survives.

The body will lie in state at the Wilson and Kratzer chapel until Saturday, when it will be taken by auto hearse to Dutch Flat, where funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. at the Masonic hall, with the Masonic lodge in charge.

MISSING MAN SOUGHT

Richmond police yesterday were asked, in a letter received from Marion, Ohio, to search for H. M. Bostick, an electrician, supposedly living in this area. The message stated that relatives of the man are very anxious to get in touch with him. Anyone knowing Bostick has been asked to call local police.

RACING BOARD IS UNDER FIRE

SACRAMENTO, April 3.—UP—Investigation of horse racing in California by the Assembly public morals committee got under way today with the airing of a long series of charges against the State Racing Commission.

Frank J. Hudson, former racing inspector. With numerous witnesses yet to be called, the meeting was expected to extend far into the night. Representatives of the commission promised a complete refutation of the Hudson accusations.

As developed during early questioning, the Hudson complaint boiled down to charges that the commission:

Hired incompetent employees who "didn't know a horse from a cow."

Showed favoritism in the granting of racing applications and discriminated against California horse owners.

Based the selection of employees and tracks on "social standing" rather than merit.

General Veale Not Eligible For Pension
SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—Although he established a record of 40 years continuous service as Contra Costa county sheriff, R. R. Veale, defeated at the last election, is not eligible for a pension under state law.

Attorney General U. S. Webb ruled today that Veale in view of state law permitting establishment of pension funds by boards of supervisors. Webb held that inasmuch as the Contra Costa officials had not taken steps to establish a pension fund until after the expiration of the state law, the pension officer was not eligible to a pension.

Crowds At Dog Track Increase

Reedley Dan thrilled a large crowd at El Cerrito Kennel club last night by coming home in front in the second half of the double option, the ninth race, to make a $52.10 payoff in the double combined with The Monarch, C. A. Rhodes' veteran dog, in the seventh.

El Cerrito showed a surprising gain in attendance last night, despite the sloppy conditions.

The crowd, estimated at 6,000 persons, saw many a long shot boom down the stretch in front. One of the biggest surprises of the night was Wanda Dean, a repeater, in the fourth race, paying $30.60. War Hero paid $7.20 in the eighth race.

ADOLPH KIEFER OF CHICAGO, HOLDER OF ALL THE WORLD'S DORSAL RECORDS FROM 100 TO 500 YARDS, HOPES TO EMERGE WITH A FEW NEW ONES WHEN HE MAKES HIS NEW YORK DEBUT IN THE A.A.U. MEET APRIL 4-6!

RUNNERS SHOW FITNESS FOR BIG HANDICAP

SAN MATEO, April 3.—A few long cheap horses at Hay Meadows are making the running in the $5,000 Spring Handicap, which is on the Richmond city track, run 2 miles, over the mile and one-sixteenth route.

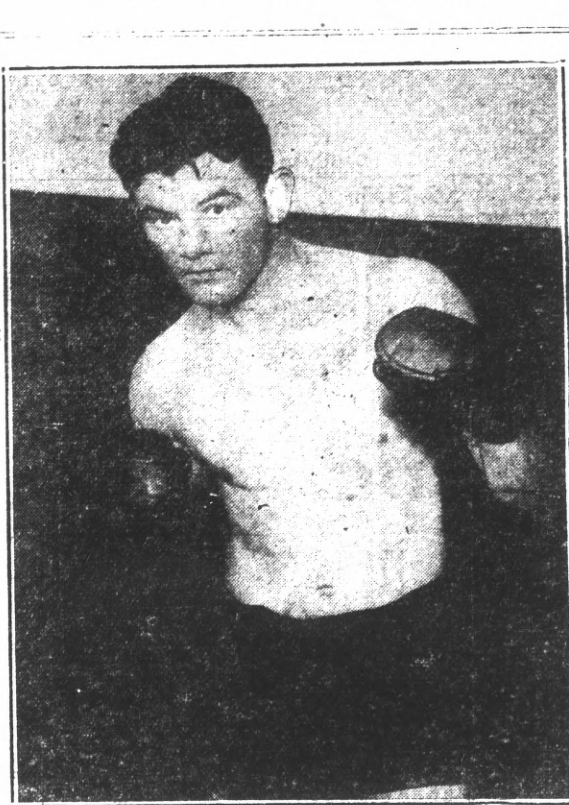

Top Run, which recently entered a stable for injury, posted his fitness by turning in an honest five weeks of one mile yesterday morning in 1:11 3-5. The star of the A. A. Racers stable which holds the world record for the distance, will be racing over Saturday, with one of the favorites to expect the stable prize.

Shawnee Belle and Terence, which are expected to run coupled as the P. M. Pick entry, also were out yesterday, as today morning. Thursday the heavier six furlongs in 1:18 and Terence a mile in 1:42 and the old west coast favorite, which in top form and should make a dangerous contender.

Frank Brown, one of the W. F. A. A. Runners, which usually finishes with a rush and barely makes setting up in time, showed exceptional speed in a mile workout and can be counted on for a good effort Saturday.

At least 50 per cent of the favorites have, in the last three days, been the two largest price winners. The morning have scored during the last three days, Saturday had a win and paid $104.20 for $2.00. On Tuesday Seven Up beat a good lot of sprinters for $2.00. On the last 21 races at Hay Meadows, exactly 12 favorites have won.

THIS IS James J. Braddock, New Jersey youth, selected by the New York State Athletic Commission as the No. 1 contender for Max Baer's heavyweight boxing championship crown. But Max don't take the selection seriously. "That's the biggest laugh I've had in months," he said.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM WINS IN ANOTHER GAME

Playing their last practice game of the season, the Richmond High school football team yesterday defeated the Vallejo high school by a score of 7 to 0.

Although the Red boys were not as hot as the Alabes were, they held the ball in their hands and tied up 10 or 15 minutes, and then Richmond to score at will.

Richmond's play on the ground was not high and it allowed the Vallejo boys to support the kicking game. The visitors, however, in the entire game, only made one play, which was a punt, and they were compared to their own seven or eight errors.

At the end of the game Coach Phil Hedges used every available man to crowd the Vallejo boys and the crowd kept cheering for the owners of the M.V.L. season here, the Richmond team.

Eavesdropping Is Charged To Federal Agent

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—UP—Charges that a Department of Justice agent eavesdropped on defense testimony after being ordered to leave the courtroom caused a bitter legal battle in trial of seven persons accused of aiding "Baby Face" Nelson today.

Defense Attorney John Taffe asserted that Vernon Criss, agent, who testified regarding an alleged confession made by Frank Cochran, was the offender.

He claimed that Criss, who was requested to leave the room when Cochran testified, was in the courtroom to the roof of the court building last Friday. There, with an ear close to a ventilator, he listened to Cochran's testimony, Taffe claimed.

Texas Rangers Even Polo Score

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—UP—The Texas Rangers polo team evened the score in the Western championship matches today by defeating the California four, 12 to 11, in the second of their three game series at Golden Gate Park.

Cecil Smith, captain and nine goal star for the Rangers, turned in a brilliant game at the No. 3 position to score five goals for the winners.

Flying Time Is To Be Reduced

CHICAGO, April 3.—United Air Lines tomorrow will reduce its Chicago-New York flying time by 30 minutes and its New York-Los Angeles schedule by 1 hour 45 minutes, W. A. Patterson, president of the company, announced today.

Eight round trips daily between Chicago and New York will be flown in 4 hours and 20 minutes each exclusive, with a new twin-engine Boeings cruising 20 miles an hour faster than the company's present fleet.

MARRIAGE OF LOCAL COUPLE IS ANNOUNCED

The secret marriage of Edwin W. Ridley to Miss Eve Slaten, popular local girl, was announced at a surprise party held in Berkeley by Mrs. L. McCray recently. The marriage took place on September 8 and has been kept a secret ever since.

The couple are residing at the Utopia apartments in Berkeley, and plan later to go to Donner Lake to make their home. They recently returned from their honeymoon in the south, making a trip to Agua Caliente in Mexico.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Slaten of 763 Thirty-ninth street, and Ridley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ridley of 620 Seventeenth street. Both young people attended the local schools.

PRATTS ARE HONORED AT DINNER PARTY

Rev. and Mrs. A. A. Pratt who are leaving the last of this month for Westerville, Ohio, for an extended stay, were honored guests at an informal dinner party given at a few evenings ago at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Jones, 830 Thirty-sixth street.

The affair proved to be a surprise to the Pratts.

Couples gathered to honor the Pratts were Messrs. and Mesdames J. W. Brackett, George Eby, Martin Swenson, F. J. Stark and L. R. Jones.

MRS. B. EKLUND has returned to her home from a visit to Oregon.

MRS. PAUL WAUGHMAN, of Blairsville, Pa., is a houseguest at the J. S. Spire's residence here.

MRS. IDA SMITH, who has been operating a hemstitching store on Macdonald avenue, has moved to San Francisco where she plans to open a similar business.

The dinner was served to 150 persons who heard the optimistic reports on activities of the church.

On the committee for the evening were Mrs. Ethel Gundy, Mrs. Julia Gundy, Mrs. Alva Gordon, and Mrs. Walter Holland.

P. S. TEMPLE IN PLANS FOR CONCLAVE

Delegates to the grand lodge convention in Stockton in May Louise Slinney had charge.

OPPOSITION IS OVERCOME BY MISS PERKINS

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins fought for her job today, and won. She fought against a proposal which might rob her post of real effectiveness, and converted a hardboiled committee chairman to her point of view.

Facing the House labor group on the Wagner-Connelly disputes bill for more than two hours, the woman cabinet officer sought bravely to stem a growing movement to strip the functions of her department at a point where it might become an innocuous unit.

Emphatically she insisted that the "Supreme Court of Labor" which the disputes bill proposes to create must be made a part of the Labor Department. She insisted at the point to insist also that the annual insurance board proposed in the Administration's secretary be placed in the jurisdiction of her department and not set up independently as demanded by the House ways and means committee.

Under the disputes bill, as written, the labor judicial board would be set up as an independent unit. Senator Robert F. Wagner, Democrat, New York, co-author of the bill and former chairman of the National Labor Board insists this is the only way in which the interests of both industry and labor can be adequately safeguarded.

The American Federation of Labor thinks differently. Its leaders are openly expressing fears that the establishment of so many individual boards outside the jurisdiction of the labor department will so weaken the bureau as to make it ineffective.

This position is challenged by heads of the so-called "radical" or "rank and file" union groups who have lost faith in the various labor relations boards set up by the New Deal and now are demanding an independent setup. Their views are shared by Francis Biddle, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board and Lloyd Garrison, former head of the board.

Miss Perkins, however, succeeded in converting the House labor committee today. At the conclusion of her testimony, chairman William F. Connery, Democrat, Massachusetts, said:

were elected last evening when the Richmond Temple of Pythian Sisters held its meeting at the Brotherhood Hall.

Gertrude Richards was named as the delegate to the convention while Mrs. Mary Rihn was elected as alternate.

At the same time Miss Gertrude Smith was elected as district deputy for the coming year.

The sewing club will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Ella Baughman on Fourteenth street on Thursday.

Following last night's meeting, which was presided over by Yvonne Sunnett, the birthdays of members for the months of January, February and March were celebrated. Mary Rihn, Marjorie Richards, Lona Jackson and d

How Diphtheria Was Treated in the Days Before Present Anti-Toxins Were Developed

AS I SAT yesterday thinking of the present method of treating diphtheria, my mind went back to the time before we had diphtheria anti-toxin. All the things we did to fight this dreaded disease and how often all our work was hopeless. Then, nurses were very scarce. Only the rich could afford to have an epidemic of diphtheria there were not enough to go round. The doctor must be his own nurse and apply all the local treatment. He must scrub out the nose and throat with strong, nasty antiseptics in the effort to remove that foul membrane which covered everything in the nose and throat and extended down into the wind pipe.

He did not realize, then, that that membrane was generating a deadly poison, but he did know that with it he had cleared away his patient could not see well. To scrub out the nose and throat of a struggling, screaming child, with the knowledge that at any moment the weakened heart muscles might fail and he be suddenly confronted with death would try the courage of the stoutest heart.

At the same time, he was taking his own life in his hands, or he was in danger of losing the sight of one or both eyes if some of the membrane coughed up should lodge there. To receive a piece of that poisonous membrane in his eye and not be able to clean it out at once, meant a serious infection and probably a partial loss of sight.

NO DOUBT you have often wondered about your physician's headmirror, which he uses when he wishes to examine your nose or throat. This is a small concave mirror which he fastens around his head by means of a rubber strap. In its center is a hole in the glass and you may ask what it is for.

Well, it has a double purpose. The mirror reflects the light placed behind the patient's head, into the throat and illuminates it. If the mirror is pulled down over the doctor's eye he can look through the hole and actually see the coughed from the throat will strike the mirror and not fly into his eye.

Sometimes the little droplets do go through the opening, but he feels safer with the glass covering his eye. He keeps the other eye closed. To get back to the patient, when the membrane extended down into the throat, and membranous croup developed something must be done or the child would choke. There was one of two things to do, some one of them was to use a tracheotomy tube was placed in the windpipe to hold it open. This tube was formerly made of gold. It was about two and a half inches long and as large around as a goose quill, open through its length. The upper end flared out, so that it could not slip into the lung.

THERE was a little eye hole, through which a thread was to be passed and brought out through the mouth and fastened around the neck, to prevent slipping. A long forcep with a goose neck at the smaller end fitted into the top of the tube and enabled the doctor to reach in the throat, lift up the little valve that protected the opening of the windpipe, and pass the tube down through the opening.

While this was being done the child could not breathe and was struggling for breath, so that it must be done quickly and skilfully. Then the child could breathe through the tube, unless some membrane plugged the opening of the tube was coughed out. You can be sure that the doctor did not sleep well while the tube was in place. If this tube did not do the work, a tracheotomy tube was placed in an opening from the outside just below the Adam's apple.

Diphtheria was a nightmare for the doctor, nurse, family, and patient. After all the local trouble was under control there were weeks of worry and dread for fear of the deadly heart disease or the dreaded paralysis of the palate, throat, and vocal cords. How different this is today!

Guide to Charm SPRING SEASON TIME TO CHECK UP ON BEAUTY

By JACQUELINE HUNT

WHEN you look out of your window at the tender green of another spring and then glance at your winter-worn complexion in your own mirror you are apt to feel pretty depressed. Being dissatisfied with your face is an unavoidable symptom of spring fever—but that doesn't mean that you should do nothing about it.

The balmy spring weather should find your skin young and glowing and soft. The next two months are the nicest of all the year for your skin. The air is moist and warm, the sun not yet high enough to burn and thicken your skin with his scorching rays. Yet you need a period of "spring housecleaning" for your skin before you can take full advantage of the ideal weather.

If you are wise you will begin with an internal housecleaning. Check up on your water-drinking habits and be sure that you drink at least ten glasses daily.

Pure water will do more than anything except fresh air—to clear your sluggish skin and insure regular elimination.

Play outdoor games now or work in your garden to awaken lazy muscles and wear off unwanted fat and check up on your posture.

Stimulation comes next. Plan some good softening and stimulating treatments for your skin. This is the season when warm oil facials, facial masks and re-juvenating creams are most welcomed. Every face benefits from such treatments during the last days of March. And the preparations used for this purpose can be simple enough for you to prepare in your own home.

Since masks and oil facials are so interesting we will devote entire columns to them, but right now I want to tell you something about the circulation of the blood in your face. One of these is a rejuvenating cream made from pleasant earthy-smelling oils that bring up the circulation and actually heal and soothe the skin whatever the nature of its ailments.

Another is a delightful strawberry cream and lotion that actually contain the juice of fresh strawberries. You can put the cream on your skin just before a party if you wish, since it is by no means harsh, and your skin will be firm and glowing and young. After this fragrant pink cream has remained on your skin for a while, wipe it away, use another application of cleansing cream then pat your skin with toning lotion.

Of course some of you may find that your skin needs more complicated treatment especially if there are blackheads, enlarged pores and oiliness. Buy a complexion brush and use it with a lather of bland soap for cleansing for the next two weeks and see if your skin isn't much better. Start by using the complexion brush gently until your skin is accustomed to it so there will be no irritation.

Congressman David John Lewis Is Liberal in Thought, But Conservative in Action

ALTHOUGH he has always been considered a liberal, Representative David John Lewis, while-haired Maryland veteran in Congress, is one of the most vigorous opponents of inflation, either well-ordered or uncontrolled. Mr. Lewis is what we might call a radical with reservations. He is always ready to sponsor new deals, but before he does so he investigates the difference between fancy and facts.

When the President's economic security bill, providing for old-age pensions and unemployment insurance, was first brought into the House it had no chance whatever due to the way it was rigged Lewis took it under consideration, and made the idea much more plausible than at the beginning. He has reintroduced it, and if anything ever comes of the bill he will be entitled to the credit for having made the document practical. In other words, Representative Lewis thinks liberal and works conservative.

Until he was seventeen Lewis was an illiterate coal miner. The son of Welsh immigrants, he was born in Osceola, Penna., in 1869. At nine he was working in a coal breaker and had never seen the inside of a schoolhouse. The thirst for knowledge came upon him, however, and he discovered he had a facility for learning not given to every youth. At twenty-four he not only knew English literature, law, and Latin, but was able to translate French classics. When he was twenty he had been representing his union at a conference when someone asked him why he didn't become a lawyer. "Why not?" thought Lewis and forthwith set about it. He was admitted to the bar at twenty-three.

In order to fill a hole in their ballot the Democrats gave him a perfunctory nomination in 1906 for Congress. Two years later he was elected. His short, bulky figure, and genial countenance has been there ever since.

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "I have always had a clear, soft skin without giving it much care other than cleansing. Recently, however, I have moved to another state, where the water is hard and the altitude high and dry. My skin is becoming rough, dry and sallow in appearance. Please help me, since I know very little about skin treatments of any kind."
—Mrs. J. M.

Use a quick melting cleansing cream before each soap and water cleansing. It would be wise to catch rain water whenever you can for washing your face and hair. Otherwise use a small amount of borax or water softener. Boiling your water before using will precipitate some of the alkalis and make the water less harsh for your skin and hair. Use a good lubricating cream or plain toilet lanoline freely after cleansing. Leave on your skin for half an hour or so, then wipe away the excess and splash your skin with cold water to tone it and refine the pores.

QUESTION: "I have tried one of the facial packs that you recommended some time ago with excellent results. My skin is much clearer and softer for a while. It is now as sallow as ever, however, and I would like to know how often the pack should be used."
—Mrs. L. C.

A few very bland masks such as milk and almond meal mask can be used every week. However, mask mixtures containing stronger preparations should not be used oftener than twice a month. There are very bland, stimulating creams that can be used as often as four times a week to clear very sallow skins. If you would like more information on this subject, why not write me a personal letter? Watch the next few columns, too, as we will discuss masks and facials in more detail there.

Tasty and Nourishing Dishes for Today

Plenty of Green Vegetables Make the Menus Appetizing

By JUDITH WILSON

WHEN your meals must be hearty yet inexpensive do not be afraid to serve desserts that are nourishing as well as appetizing. Before getting to the dessert stage serve generous helpings of such plentiful spring vegetables as green peas, carrots, string beans or mixed greens. If you buy the loose asparagus by the pound it is also within the reach of the average food budget.

The man of your family and hungry boys and girls will enjoy these desserts:

Whole Wheat Pudding

Crumble whole wheat bread and measure two cups of the crumbs into a mixing dish. Add one and one-half cups milk and let stand until the milk is absorbed. Add the beaten yolks of three eggs then stir in one-fourth cup brown sugar. Fold in two bananas sliced, one apple, sliced thin, two strips each of candied orange and candied lemon peel chopped fine, one-fourth cup seeded raisins, ten dates sliced and chopped, six chopped figs and ten walnut meats chopped. Last of all fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Pour into a large buttered pudding dish, sprinkle the top with nutmeg and bake in a moderately hot oven until firm in the center. Serve hot or cold with third cup cream or a rather thin fruit sauce. This will make about ten servings or enough for two meals for the average family.

Chocolate Roll

Beat two eggs until very light and gradually add one cup sugar, then one-fourth cup hot water. Add one teaspoon vanilla, one square melted chocolate and two tablespoons melted butter without beating. Sift together one and one-fourth cups flour, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder and one-half teaspoon salt. Sift three times and finally into the cake mixture, fold in the flour as lightly as possible. Pour into a well-oiled paper-lined pan not more than one-fourth inch thick and bake in a moderate oven for about twenty minutes. Turn out on a damp, not cloth, towel, remove the crusts and roll while still warm and fast, with toothicks. When ready to serve unroll and fill with ice cream. Slice and serve.

Peach Pan Dowdy

Soak one-half pound dried peaches in cold water for two hours or more. Drain and place in a deep baking dish. Add two tablespoons melted butter, one cup liquid left from the peaches and add enough water to make one cup. Mix with one-half cup molasses and pour over the peaches. Bake in a hot oven for twenty minutes, then cover the top with rich biscuit dough rolled thin. Bake ten minutes longer and serve immediately.

Apple Snow

Make apple sauce by cooking thinly sliced apples in little water as possible. Measure one cup of the hot strained apple sauce, sweeten to taste and season with spice. Beat one egg

Prune Tarts

Cream one-fourth cup shortening and one-half cup sugar. Add a beaten egg, a teaspoon of grated lemon rind and one-half teaspoon vanilla. Sift together two and one-fourth cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder and one-fourth teaspoon salt and add to the creamed mixture with one-half cup milk. Chill this sweet pastry dough thoroughly and then use to line muffin pans. Bake in a moderate oven. Serve cooked dried prunes, season well with spice and sweeten to taste. Pile the prune mixture into the cool tart shells and top with whipped cream.

MODES AND MANNERS

QUESTION: "When are wedding announcements sent out?"
—V. H.

ANSWER: After the marriage, and on the same day if possible.

QUESTION: "I expect to make an extended train trip in the near future and would like instructions in the custom of tips on the train. How much and when does one tip the porter? What is the custom of tips in the diner?"
—M. M.

ANSWER: A dollar is the usual tip for the porter, for making up the berth and performing other little services, after a two or three-day trip or train. The waiter in the diner is generally tipped a dollar-and-a-half to two dollars at the end of a two or three-day trip by train. This tip may be given him after the last meal taken in the diner.

QUESTION: "I will sit in a box at the matinee performance of the opera next week. Shall I keep my hat on or remove it?"
—Mrs. B. M.

ANSWER: Hats are worn in opera boxes in the afternoon; but not in the evening.

QUESTION: "In two weeks we are giving a 'sister wedding' dinner for our parents. Who should make the toast? We'd like to decide this in advance, so there will be no hitch when we begin to celebrate."
—D. C.

ANSWER: It is customary for the eldest son to make the toast. If the family consists of girls only, then, obviously, it is up to the eldest child.

You and Your Child

HER SHYNESS SHOWS SHE IS LACKING PALS

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

NEITHER Betty's mother nor father are shy. It is quite natural, therefore, that they sometimes should wonder at Betty's shyness. But that is as far as their interest goes, as they are not doing much to help the child overcome the trait. It isn't that they are indifferent. Far from it. In fact, they are extremely conscientious about the child's physical care. Betty is kept clean; she is served a well-balanced diet on time; and in order to get her to bed on time, her parents have cut down on entertaining and visiting.

By this shyness of Betty is something which they evidently do not understand. If they did, I am sure they would treat the matter differently. For example, Betty has a sweet singing voice. Recently she was singing to herself at play when mother and grandmother came into the room. As soon as she saw them, she became flustered. Instead of ignoring the child's embarrassment by saying, "I have brought you a new song, see you," mother referred to the singing. Go on singing, dear. It was very pretty. Don't mind us."

By now Betty was hiding behind the sofa, still singing from here. "Don't be silly. Come out where we can see you." And mother went and brought Betty out. Betty snatched up a newspaper and held it in front of her face. Behind the newspaper she was not afraid; she could pretend that she was all alone. Since then Betty has been singing and reciting from behind a newspaper. And while it may look cute it is not helping the child one bit. If anything, it will make her more agonizingly self-conscious when brought face to face with people.

A sure cure for shyness is the opportunity to meet more people. Let the shy child spend time with a friend, neighbor or relative. Then invite them to come and bring their children to your house. Most children are shy through being too constantly with mother or the immediate family. And having their shyness treated as a joke.

When washing, watch the suds. When the froth goes flat, it means that more soap should be added.

Did you know that flowers as well as lamps are more effective if placed in front of a mirror?

When the collars and cuffs of boys' blouses become frayed, cut them down to semi-low necks and short sleeves. These should make comfortable play shirts for warm weather.

Item for decorating ice cream for a children's party: Pulverized sick candy sprinkled over a scoop of ice cream is certain to make a hit, particularly if the candy used is pink.

Couples sometimes separate over very trivial matters and with really no cause. Such separations are not hard to heal, and if one has learned a lesson there may be no serious damage done if both parties have conducted themselves with due consideration for the other.

When a woman has been so unwise as to paint her husband as a brute who abuses her and then goes back to him and further trouble ensues her friends are inclined to say that it serves her right, and that they have no sympathy for her. Her accusations may have been unfounded—or grossly exaggerated, nevertheless she has placed herself in a most undesirable light. She must henceforth struggle along under the charge of gross misrepresentation of facts.

Criticism of the husband usually reflects on the wife.

MODERN WOMEN

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

The Wife Would Go Back to Her Husband, But Fears What Friends Will Say

RECONCILIATIONS would not be embarrassing if both keep a still tongue on the causes of the quarrel. A wife who openly criticizes her husband, and who has actually left him, is a woman who is bothered by what folks will say when they learn she has taken on him back. But does it matter?

"Dear Mrs. Martin, I've been living apart from my husband for nearly a year and have expected to divorce him, but we have come together again. It's rather embarrassing, as all my friends have expressed sympathy with me for the way my husband treated me and have also expressed themselves very freely about him—in none too complimentary a manner. He has done the right thing by me, but we both feel we have learned our lesson."

"We have a little girl who is in boarding school, and we are thinking we should make another try for her sake. Would you please tell me just how I should tell my friends. I hate to do it as it makes me feel like a fool. I guess I talked too much about his faults and gave the wrong impression. Don't you think old fires can be rekindled?"

Whether old fires can be rekindled is rather beside the point, isn't it? One might infer that the rekindling had already taken place since you say you are back together again.

You owe your friends no apologies for going back to your husband. If they are inquisitive about the whys and wherefores tell them as much or as little as you like. They may think you are silly to go back for more—but it's entirely your own affair and, silly or not, it's your life going back to your privilege.

Many couples separate, see their mistake, are reunited, and make a good job of being married. Others have a reconciliation with parts. They get together for a bit, and make a worse mess than ever of their marriage.

You have an incentive in your child. You naturally believe that it is better for her to go back to your husband. So it is if you live as you should after you go back. It's dreadful to rear a child in an atmosphere of bitter quarreling or even senseless bickering.

Among the lessons you must learn before you can make a go of it is that you must not criticize your husband to his friends. Had you not done so you would not have been embarrassed over the situation in which you now find yourself. If you feel that way how do you suppose your friends feel after having made the best of the opportunity you gave them to express themselves candidly about your husband?

Whatever you do don't be a fool enough to repeat these that you are reunited. And if opinions to your husband, now you hope for any sort of success your husband or in by-gones be by-gones. Don't keep referring to the past, and avoid any mention of the advice your friends are sure to have proffered.

If you are both sincere in making your marriage a going institution I am sure you can do it. Profit by your previous mistakes.

bill; Irishmen in the south cease to be British subjects; London refuses to recognize new law.

ALL HEARD

VENNA, April 3.—UP.—The government officially confirmed reports tonight that Austria was prepared in principle to follow Germany's rearmament program. A communique was issued revealing that the "necessary preparatory measures" already have been taken, designed to throw off treaty restrictions on Austria's arms.

CONSIDER BILL

The official communique on rearmament said:

"The cabinet, this afternoon considered Austria's military establishment, and decided unanimously that permission for equality for Austria remains the obvious pre-condition."

"The necessary preparatory measures in this sense already have been taken."

A government spokesman told the United Press the government's decision must be interpreted as "one of principle."

TO TRIPLE ARMY

The cabinet's announcement followed similar intimations recently by Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg and Foreign Minister Baron von Bergr-Waldeneck, in a recent visit to Paris and London.

Both together with Vice Chancellor Prince Ernst Rudiger von Starhemberg, staunch monarchist, openly have declared Austria's intention to demand lifting of the arms restriction provisions of the treaty of St. Germain.

Austria may be expected to at least triple her army, now restricted to 38,000.

S. O. WORKERS HEAR REPORTS

Reports on the recent election of officers and appointment of a new first vice president featured last night's meeting of the Standard Oil Employees' Association. J. D. Rowden was elected first vice president of the Association at the recent election but since he has been promoted to a foremanship he is ineligible to hold the position. As a result, the group voted unanimously to elect C. Frisvold as first vice president, to serve until October.

Ben F. Mowdy, president of the Association, will leave today for Tulsa to attend the central governing board meeting there. He will carry with him the request of the local Association members that something be done to provide hospitalization for association members. Another plan, to be discussed by the board, includes publication of a booklet to tell of the relationship of the Association and the Standard Oil Company.

Motion pictures of the George Washington bridge were shown to the members of the Association.

49 Camp Celebration Investigation Asked By El Cerrito Judge

and had not been arrested and that one so-called prominent resident of El Cerrito became intoxicated and that he was taken to the Alameda county line, and placed in a hospital, instead of being taken to the city jail "where he belonged."

Judge Thompson declared that his court intended to be fair in the matter and as a result, charges against anyone arrested at the carnival for intoxication were thereupon dismissed and bail remitted. Pickles was the only man in the crowded courtroom who admitted that he had been "pickled" at the carnival, and was released by the court after his bail money had been refunded.

Immediately upon the release of Pickles, Judge Thompson lashed out in a verbal attack upon the carnival, declared that a "saloon bar" was run openly at the place and liquor was sold by the drink to all who applied.

The jurist charged that gambling was carried on in an open manner at the celebration, and that he saw these games being carried on in defiance of the law, and that professional bartenders and professional gamblers were in charge.

In concluding his lengthy prepared statement, Judge Thompson pleaded that a safety council be organized in El Cerrito.

His statement follows:

THOMPSON STATEMENT

"The so-called '49 Camp Celebration', presumably sponsored by the American Legion (Camp of 11 Cerrito), held in said city from March 28th to the 31st, both inclusive, has now passed into history, but the harmful and evil results thereof have not and will not pass. I have no quarrel with the American Legion, as such, and will gladly uphold and support it to the extent of my financial ability in all of its lawful undertakings. I have no criticism to offer against the estimable young ladies who took part in the 'Queen Contest', the dance held at the Legion hall on the parade held in connection with said 'celebration'. My criticism goes to the so-called 'headquarters' for said celebration held in the 'Hollywood Inn', a building and space some 200 feet by 200 feet located in this city.

"This great space was crowded to its capacity, with two exceptions, by games of chance and gambling apparatus ranging all the way through slot machines, bingo games, poker, black jack and numerous gambling devices, all played openly during said four days with and for the coin of the realm to a record-breaking crowd including men, women and children. Two exceptions were a dance floor and an 'old fashioned saloon bar' next to it.

"Diverging for a moment to the 'saloon bar'. This was run openly in a public place. Apparently all brands of intoxicating liquor were sold by the drink to all who should apply with the necessary price. I did not sample the stuff myself, but all kinds of bottles were on the back bar, carrying intoxicating liquor labels, from which drinks were poured and consumed. One may guess that it was not brown sugar and water. I saw women lead little girls up to this bar, where these girls stood with wide open eyes as those around them drank, while the whole performance was in the open with minors of all ages surging past, intermingled with the crowd. May I ask the Board of Equalization if it is within the power of the Board to grant a temporary license to anyone to run an open bar for the sale of all kinds of intoxicating liquor by the drink without facilities for serving food and in an open public place where crowds of men, women and children are gathered for any kind of a celebration? If not, I demand an investigation to fix the responsibility for the violation of the law.

"Returning to the gambling end of the affair, I saw minors of all ages and around the gambling games while the same were being carried for money. Boys and girls from 10 years up were watching with wide open eyes as money was played and lost or won. I saw one boy about 10 years old playing a slot machine, while others of about the same age were trying to play other slot machines but did not have the necessary coin to operate the wonderful apparatus. Literally thousands of people played these various games of chance during the 'celebration'.

"Did the American Legion as such sponsor and authorize this unlawful affair, or was it put over by one or two of its members? I would be well pleased to learn that the American Legion, as such, had nothing to do with it. Why, asked, invited or 'authorized' the members to come to El Cerrito and run wide open in violation of the laws of the State of California?

"I am informed that this 'celebration' was put on for the alleged purpose of raising funds for the local American Legion Camp. I saw no familiar faces operating the 'bar' or gambling games, so they must have been operated by professional bar tenders and gamblers. Did the means justify the end? I am told that the Legion received from those who operated the 'bar' and gambling games a few paltry dollars for the concessions; the gamblers apparently reaped the golden harvest, and now the people are to reap the whirlwind. To my mind this was one of the biggest schools for crime conducted in the State of California for many a day. Men were there with stars glistening on their breasts, but why they were there I do not know. They made no arrests.

"The law cannot compromise with crime. The decent, law-abiding citizens of El Cerrito cannot stand silently by and condone such open, notorious and inexplicable violation of the law, and I protest for and on their behalf against it, may cost me my job, which I am ill afforded to lose.

"This whole affair requires a grand jury investigation, and I demand that the grand jury of Contra Costa make such an investigation."

A. G. THOMPSON
Police Judge of the City of El Cerrito, California.

of the accident. Winter declared that he had drunk only one glass of wine at an El Cerrito cafe prior to the accident. Winter stated that he did not see young Harlow standing in the middle of the highway until it was too late to avoid striking him. Bruno Mythini, another witness for the defendant, was not called to the stand although Mrs. Winter had followed her husband to the witness stand and told her story.

Traffic Officers Ed Smith and Arthur Peralta of the El Cerrito police department; Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Harlow, parents of the deceased; Dr. C. L. Abbott, who attended the fatally injured youth and William Malone, waiter at an El Cerrito cafe were the remaining witnesses.

A coroner's jury in Alameda county recently returned a verdict that the death was accidental, caused by the carelessness of both Winter and the deceased.

Action Deferred On Income Tax Bill For A Day

SACRAMENTO, April 3.—UP—

Temporarily shelving proposed income tax legislation, the Assembly late today passed by a vote of 64 to 12 the highly controversial building and loan association reorganization bill.

Set as a special order of business, the building and loan act took precedence over the income tax bill which finally was put over until tomorrow morning on motion of the author, Assemblyman Ford Chatters, Lindsay.

Under terms of the building and loan bill, an emergency rehabilitation period is created to end February 1, 1937, and sets up the necessary machinery to permit the associations to take advantage of federal aid such as that provided under the home loan bank act.

The Assembly passed a bill limiting the hours of domestic work to 10 hours a day if the employees lived on the premises and worked more than one day otherwise.

The lower house refused approval of a bill which would have relieved school trustees of their personal liability in injury cases after voters refused to vote bonds or permit tax increases to finance needed repairs or improvements for school property.

Portland Vice Raids Net 17

PORTLAND, Ore., April 3.—UP—

Charges of moral turpitude were brought against 17 Filipinos, an Austrian and a Swede, arrested in a series of swift raids that climaxed six months of investigation. They are held for deportation proceedings.

Only one Oregon Filipino has been deported since the Philippines obtained provisional independence on May 1, 1934, and islanders became aliens.

City detectives and federal immigration inspectors obtained evidence of moral turpitude against the 19 men by following them for months.

Filipinos who resided in the United States prior to independence are entitled to remain here if they are of good character.

Plans Rejected

BRITAIN SAW a crisis nearing as the diplomatic visit to Berlin of Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, and Captain Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal, appeared to have brought nothing but rejection of Britain's peace plans by Hitler. Above are Sir John, left, and Captain Eden as they left London for the Berlin conference.

Ultra Modern Is Business Office Of Phone Company

Richmond is now served by one of the most distinctive and modern telephone business offices in the East Bay, following occupation Monday of its new local headquarters at 315 Tenth street, by The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

All telephone business matters formerly transacted at the previous location, 315 Sixth street, are centered in the new quarters, which are "countless" and resemble a large private office.

Manager L. T. Marshall described the business office change as "another step in a series of improvements which has kept Richmond in the front rank of telephone exchanges."

Prime features of the new office are seen in the absence of all com-ters, and the installation of special record-file desks at which customers may sit while transacting business with company representatives.

"The new system is designed to insure personal attention to every telephone account by a special representative, responsible for and acquainted with its history and requirements," said Marshall.

"Our improved plan and equipment for handling calls, with the public are designed for use in metropolitan cities, and make possible a highly personalized service."

"When a customer chooses to transact business with the company by telephone, he need only ask for the 'business office,' and the call is promptly routed to the proper representative. Thus there is no need to ask for a particular employee in the business office. Any contact addressed to the office will be promptly attended to by a representative qualified to handle the case."

Marshall said that the telephone business office has had but three "moving days" in the last thirty years. The first took place in 1907, when quarters at 242 Third street were occupied. In 1934 the office was transferred to 315 Sixth street where it remained until last Saturday.

were agreed upon if the Federal board did not produce a settlement.

AGREE TO ARBITRATE

The unionists already have agreed to arbitrate the stumbling block of the dispute, preferential employment for union members.

A statement was issued by the operators here today that 10 of its fuel ships had been put back in service with non-union crews, approximately a third of the entire coast tanker fleet.

TANKERS MOVE

Three more tanker movements were reported—the General Petroleum's Emido weighed anchor here and moved to an oil dock to load; the Associated's Frank H. Buck arrived at Tacoma, and the Standard's Dart cleared Ventura with a capacity load of crude oil for an unannounced destination.

Spokesmen for the strikers feel they must take action against these movements or the entire strike is likely to crumble away. They would not say what plans for action they had.

The State Federation of Labor pushed a boycott campaign against Standard Oil and the Wilshire Oil companies. Standard was accused of refusing recognition to the International Seamen's Union and of leading the tankers in the holdout. Wilshire was included because it would not deal with the Oil Workers Union.

Building Permits Valued At $25,440

Building permits during the month of March totaled in value $25,440, according to the report of City Building Inspector A. J. Hurley. Of this amount, $32,000 represented seven permits for construction of homes; repairs and alterations involved expenditures of $700; permits for additions to buildings represented $2,415 while miscellaneous permits were $325.
